Bill 148 Now in Effect Are You Compliant with New Employer Obligations?

AURORA, ON, January 11, 2018 – Join the Aurora Chamber of Commerce on January 17, 2018 for our first Hot Topic information session: Bill 148 – Bracing for Change where Laura Williams will discuss the significant changes that have shifted the employment and labour law landscape in 2018 and, most importantly, how organizations can prepare.

Laura Williams is the Founder and Principal of Williams HR Law and Williams HR Consulting, with over two decades of experience providing strategic advice and legal representation to employers on a full range of labour relations, HR and employment law matters.

As a business owner recognized as one of Canada's top female entrepreneurs by the W100 listing, Laura is passionate about providing clients with proactive advice designed to minimize workplace law challenges, maximize employee engagement and boost their bottom line performance. She is widely recognized as a leader in helping employers leverage innovative strategies to reduce liability and costs related to ineffective and non-compliant workplace practices.

During this Hot Topic – Bill 148: Bracing for Change information session, Laura will:

- Review the proposed changes under Bill 148, The Fair Workplaces, Better Jobs Act, 2017
- Discuss how entitlement to chronic mental stress claims under workplace safety and insurance legislation will be enhanced
- Examine the implications that these changes will have on organizations
- Explore key strategies and best practices to minimize risks and meet new compliance responsibilities
